

Phone + snub = Phub

It's a funny new word used to describe mindless moments in which we prioritize social interaction over real-life connections. We don't need research to tell us that it's rude to focus on our phones while in the company of others. Make a mindful decision about where you put your attention.